entr0py

entr0py is the official radio show of C3L aired live from Radio ARA. We're on air every 4th week, so nearly once a month. The topics we're treating are widespreaded and of all different kinds of nature; from ITSecurity to the cyberpolitical realities in all of our live, the heaviest bugfucks of the month, as the analysis of technologies in its detail.

The name entr0py has come from virii within a jam session to find a name. Our team consists of 2 - 3 people who'll attend regulary in the shows. For the rest we'll have all different sorts of guests or interviews for our listeners.

Sometimes the 60 minutes on air are just not enough to cover some topics in detail, that's why we decided to just keep on on recording, even when the timeframe has been pushed over the boundaries. The additional minutes or hours can be found as well here on the wiki, but as podcast.

If you'd like to contact the team of entr0py, come along or bring in your topic and questions, just contact us or come along on our ChaosMeetings.

Show

As any radio show, entr0py has of course a Jingle of its own and a logo as well.

Some topics are being discussed more than others. If this happens, we try to record an 'extended' version of entr0py, which we have named Bare Metal. This is a podcast, in which all attendees discuss in a loose atmosphere topic(s) with the simple exception that everything is being recorded and put online. Very interesting for all those who want to have more technical details, but for which the the 1 hour show is simply no enough.

Below, you can read all details about the single recorded shows, as with artist information about our songs. Every show is available as podcast as well.

Hosts Information

As running a radio show is quite a trivial task on the one hand and a complex one on the other, we have dedicated a full wiki page only to this task - and it was much needed.
